Prose no intentional structural meter. Prose is written in paragraphs and chapters. It is made up of characters and incidences that are organized in a chronological order.

What is good prose?

"Good prose" is kind of like asking what a "good painting" is. It really depends on what you are trying to do. Sometimes good prose is like a clear windowpane--something that you don't notice and just stays out of the way of the exciting adventures or compelling characters the story is about.

What are the two types of prose?

There are several different types of prose—which, in general, is any non-poetic writing. The main categories of prose are nonfiction prose, fictional prose, heroic or legendary prose, and poetic prose.

What does in prose mean?

Prose is so-called "ordinary writing" — made up of sentences and paragraphs, without any metrical (or rhyming) structure. If you write, "I walked about all alone over the hillsides," that's prose. If you say, "I wondered lonely as a cloud/that floats on high o'er vales and hills" that's poetry.

What is creative prose?

Prose is like pornography hard to define but you know it when you see it. Usually poetry is not considered prose. Prose is written in paragraph form and has some originality plus beauty or other value. Adding the word "Creative" adds nothing. I hear people talking about creative writing.

What is difference between prose and verse?

What is the difference between verse and prose, and why is it important? Prose is could be called "normal language" - it is what we use in every day speech. ... Verse can also be called poetry - it tends to have a regular rhythm, and is divided into "stanzas" rather than paragraphs. Verse can sometimes rhyme..
